GOUDY TRAJAN

Goudy Trajan, a CastleType original, is my interpretation of the drawings of American type designer Frederic W. Goudy (1865-1947), which are one of the best renderings of the inscriptional letters on the famous Trajan column in Rome. In 1930, Goudy created a metal type called "Trajan" based on his drawings, but a great deal of subtlety was lost in translation. One of the most elegant typefaces in the CastleType library, Goudy Trajan retains that original subtlety. Available in three weights: Regular, Medium, and Bold. All weights support most European languages; only Regular supports Cyrillic at this time.
